

Designing from a Distance

With the recent “Stay at Home Order” due to COVID-19 I’m sure, like many of us, you’ve spent countless hours in the kitchen preparing meals for your family while thinking, “Wow, it sure would be nice if my kitchen had an appliance garage.” or, “I sure wish I had a self-closing pullout waste container.” Rest assured, some of these items can be added to your current kitchen cabinets however if you’re thinking of a complete kitchen remodel, we have a great idea.

Now is a better time than ever to take advantage of your spare time at home by collaborating with our team at California Woodworking, Inc. Why not utilize the team here at California Woodworking, Inc. to help design your new kitchen while you are at home? Rest assured; we won’t come to your house but we will need a few things from you.

Step 1. Create a Vision Board. Hop online and visit Houzz.com. In the Houzz Search bar, search “pullout waste bin”. Select a photo that you like. Click on the “Save” icon. You will be asked to save the photo in an Ideabook. You can create multiple Ideabooks. Once you have finished your Ideabook, you can then invite our team to collaborate with you by adding our team’s email address - info@calwoodinc.com. We will receive a notification and can then use your Ideabook as a basis to design your kitchen.

Step 2. Take Measurements. Grab a notepad, a pencil or pen, and a tape measure and measure away. On your notepad, sketch the shape of your kitchen. It’s a good idea to note where your windows and doors are along with any other items like electrical outlets, plumbing lines, gas lines, and exhaust ducts. Once this is done, take a photo of your sketch and email it to info@calwoodinc.com. Our team will use this to lay out the walls for the design.

Step 3. Take Photos of Your Kitchen. Using your smartphone, take photos of your kitchen. Photograph in a way that our team can see the overall kitchen layout. Close up photos really aren’t necessary. The more photos the better and helps our team tremendously. A video walkthrough of your kitchen might help as well. Once you have these, email them to info@calwoodinc.com and our team will review.

Once this information is received, we will contact you to review the essentials that you would like in your new kitchen. We will then get started with a fully rendered 3D drawing that will be presented to you through your smartphone or PC along with a budgetary price for your new kitchen cabinets. It’s as simple as that. Give us a call today to get started - (805) 982-9090.

Sincerely,

Your Team at California Woodworking, Inc.
